February 13th-February 17th, 2012
Monday-Friday

The Tiger Class has been busy learning about community helpers this week. We have learned that a dentist is a doctor that takes care of your teeth and that a doctor helps you when you are sick. We learned that a firefighter will help you if there is a fire at your house and that the police will help you if you are lost.

This Monday, was not the typical Monday at Temple Torah. Our dads, grandpas and uncles came to school for Dads n Donuts. We had a great time making a picture frame with them and having snack and circle time. Thanks for spending the morning with us.

Brooks and his dad making a picture.

Celeste and her Uncle Nick enjoying a donut.

Foster and his dad enjoying some time in the library.

Dylan after he gave his dad the present he made him.

Esther and her dad having cookies.

We played in the sand box during playground time.

On Tuesday, we learned about what a dentist does. We had a big set of fake teeth that each child got to take a turn brushing. During center time we painted a giant tooth with a tooth brush. It was a lot of fun!

We went to the Wasley Chapel for Judaic Music with Cantor Zach. We have started to learn some Purim songs.

On Wednesday, we talked about doctors. We looked at an x-ray that we have in the class. We learned that an x-ray is a picture of your bones or other organs that are on the inside of your body.

We made our own x-rays. The children chose if they wanted an x-ray of their arm and hand or their foot. We painted that part of the body white and put it on black construction paper.

We read a book about doctors.

On Thursday, we talked about what fire fighter do. We painted a paper plate and bowl that we are going to turn into a fire hat.

We went to secular music with Miss Beth.

On Friday, we will celebrate Shabbat in the Wasley Chapel. Esther will be the Malach. Thanks for the delicious snacks.
